Dokumentacja Platformy Technologicznej epodreczniki.pl - otwarte API platformy

w wersji 3.0.0

Poznań, 26 listopada 2015 r.

Poznańskie Centrum Superkomputerowo-Sieciowe
ICHB Polska Akademia Nauk

Niniejszy dokument zawiera szczegółowy opis wszystkich końcówek web API platformy epodreczniki.pl.

Samo API ma własne wersjonowanie i wszystkie wersje wymienione w tym dokumencie dostarczane są z platformą w wersji 3.0.0.

version 2.1: some methods were updated

API has been slightly modified due to introduction of the new features. Please review your codebase.

API Version Negotiation

Determining API version is done by a HTTP header rather than a url.

Method for select API version

Each method can have a few of versions where each other differs a little or more. To avoid generation thousand of url patterns, api version is not embedded in url.

API version can be selected with use of Accept header, where there can be assigned a version string: application/psnc.epo.api-v<version-number> . Remember that a format accept determination string should be provided, for more information see: Format Param and Content Negotiation

Example header

Accept: application/json; application/psnc.epo.api-v1.0

If an accept header is not provided: a default version of method will be returned. It can be:

- version of a particular method related with current API version,
- last of known version of a particular method (lower than current API version),
- default version of a particular method, that should be used mainly (it can be specific version greater than current API version).

Current API version: 2.0 (and some methods following 2.1)

version 2.1: some methods were updated

API has been slightly modified due to introduction of the new features. Please review your codebase.

Format Param and Content Negotiation

There are two methods for determining format of response output. First approach is not strictly REST solution but simpler for using with straightforward requests.

Format Param

For quick changing response format use query parameter `format`.

Currently `JSON` and `XML` formats are supported.

Example Usage

http://api.epodreczniki.pl/collections?format=json

Determining the accepted renderer

REST framework uses a simple style of content negotiation to determine which media type should be returned to a client, based on the available renderers, the priorities of each of those renderers, and the client's `Accept` header. The style used is partly client-driven, and partly server-driven.

1. More specific media types are given preference to less specific media types.
2. If multiple media types have the same specificity, then preference is given to based on the ordering of the renderers configured for the given view.

For example, given the following `Accept` header:

application/json; indent=4, application/json, application/xml, text/html,
/

The priorities for each of the given media types would be:

- `application/json; indent=4`
- `application/json`, `application/xml` and `text/html`
- `//`

For more information on the `HTTP Accept` header, see RFC 2616.
